

ADD ONE/WE THE PEOPLE MOSAIC

A variety of semiprecious stones and minerals were used in the mosaic, including quartz, sodalite, glass, amazonite, blue lace agate, yellow opalite, zebra marble, agate, leopard skin jasper, turetella agate, lavender pinite, stromatalite, brass, zebra marble, glass gems, agate, snowflake obsidian, aluminum, and ceramic tile.

A Philadelphia native, Jonathan Mandell is one of the nation's leading mosaic artists. His mosaics can be seen locally at the National Consitution Center, Citizens Bank Park, The National Liberty Museum, Delaware Valley College, Gratz College, Overbrook High School, The National Museum of American Jewish History, The Perelman Jewish Day School, Temple Beth Hillel, Temple Adath Israel, Jewish Federation, United Way, the Leonard and Madlyn Abramson Center for Jewish Living, the University of Pennsylvania at Steinhardt Hall, and soon at the Perelman Center for Jewish Life. Additionally, his work is online at www.jonathanmandell.com. Mandell's art has also been exhibited at Yeshiva University Museum and is on permanent display in New York at the McGraw Hill Company, as well as in public sites throughout the country, including New York, Minneapolis, Boston, and Las Vegas. Mandell received his Masters of Fine Arts degree from the University of Pennsylvania Graduate School of Fine Arts.

The National Constitution Center, located at 525 Arch St. on Philadelphia's Independence Mall, is an independent, nonpartisan, nonprofit organization dedicated to increasing public understanding of the U.S. Constitution and the ideas and values it represents. Opened on July 4, 2003, the Constitution Center is a museum, an education center, and a forum for debate on constitutional issues. The museum dramatically tells the story of the Constitution from Revolutionary times to the present through more than 100 interactive, multimedia exhibits, film, photographs, text, sculpture and artifacts, and features a powerful, award-winning theatrical performance, "Freedom Rising". The Center also houses the Annenberg Center for Education and Outreach, which serves as the hub for national constitutional education and debates. For more information, call 215.409.6600 or visit www.constitutioncenter.org.

###